NMPRC Commissioner Jason A. Marks to Speak at the Western Clean Energy Advocates Meeting

Commissioner to provide remarks on regulatory considerations to Clean Energy Organizations

SANTA FE– On October 5, 2011, New Mexico Public Regulation Commissioner Jason Marks (District 1) will speak at the Western Clean energy Advocates Meeting. Commissioner Marks also played a pivotal role in ensuring the meeting would be held in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Commissioner Marks, will speak on what considerations are important to regulators when it comes to Clean Energy. The Advocates, which are made up of industry members as well as political organizations, are meeting to discuss a robust market for clean energy technologies and products.

“It is my honor to be included in this meeting,” Marks said. “Working toward a stronger marketplace for clean energy, which will benefit us with industry and jobs, is something I have always supported.”

The Western Clean Energy Advocates Meeting will be held at Hotel Santa Fe on October 5 and 6, 2011..
